French Tell of Their Progress.

HEAVY FIGHTING AT DIXMUDE

Paris Declares British Fleet Aids in Victory.

London, Oct. 20.—The Morning Post correspondent in the north of France says he learns on excellent authority that the allies have recaptured Ostend.

Paris, Oct. 20.—The official communication issued by the war office says: Belgium attacks by the Germans between Nieuport and Dixmude have been repulsed by the Belgian army, effectually aided by the British fleet. "Between Arras and Roye slight progress has been made at several points. Our troops have reached as far as the wire network of the defense.

"In the neighborhood of St. Mihiel we have gained some ground on the right bank of the Meuse.

"No news of importance has been received regarding the remainder of the front."

London, Oct. 20.—German forces have reached the neighborhood of Dunkirk, according to a Berlin official dispatch to the Marconi Wireless company. Heavy fighting is taking place at Dixmude and Roulers. The inhabitants of Dunkirk and Donlogne are in flight.

The third act of the war in the western theater has reached a critical point. The first act was the German attempt to sweep through Belgium and Northern France upon Paris and capture the French capital.

The second act was the offensive assumed by the allies after General von Kluck had stretched his army on the German west wing over a long line of communications that he could not hold. The allied army pressed the German forces back toward the Belgian border, compelling the entire line from the eastern pivot of Verdun to recede in order to maintain an unbroken front and a possible line of retreat.

The third act is the attempted advance of the Germans along the coast of Belgium and Northern France, apparently with the design of establishing themselves in the channel ports from which points of vantage they could menace England.

Heavy Guns in Use.

Reports from France indicated that the extreme western fighting line now reaches from Armentieres through Roulers to Nieuport which is on the coast about half way between Ostend and Dunkirk. According to the French official announcement German heavy artillery, presumably used in the siege of Antwerp has been moved from the front from Nieuport to Vladslo, which is about ten miles from the coast.

The German official report covers the operations more tersely. It says that the attacks to the west and northwest of Lille have been repulsed with heavy losses to the allies.

The announcement that the Germans have taken siege guns to the neighborhood of Belfort may mean that they plan to attempt an advance on both ends of what during the past month has become a very long fortified line.

Great battles continue in the eastern theater between the Russian and Austro-German forces. Reports from both sides are brief and contradictory. Petrograd claims the Russians have won partial success in severe fighting before Warsaw and Przemyśl. Vienna declares the Austro-German armies have made advances in both regions and that the Russian casualties at Przemyśl number 40,000.

NATIONALISTS INDORSE WAR

Irish Party Adopts Pledge to Fight Until Belgium Regains Freedom.

London, Oct. 20.—Amid tumultuous cheering, with right hands upraised, the Irish Nationalists who crowded Central hall adopted the following pledge introduced by T. P. O'Connor: "We will never sheathe the sword until Belgium has got back her freedom; until every inch of her soil is clear; until a treaty is made not on a scrap of paper, but on foundation behind which stands the millions of the British race."

The meeting was called to express confidence in the leadership of John Redmond and to indorse the action of the Irish party in supporting the war of the allies.

LATEST DEVELOPMENTS IN EUROPE.

That section of Belgium which stretches from Ostend on the North sea to the French border is bearing the brunt of the heavy fighting between the allied army and the Germans.

The invaders have been opposed by the Belgians, who, aided by British warships, according to the French official communication, have succeeded in repulsing their attacks.

The troops who are arrayed against each other between Arras and Roye still are driving with shot and shell, and in this district the allies have advanced at several points.

A Berlin official dispatch announces German forces have reached the neighborhood of Dunkirk.

The German embassy at Washington says that the British battleship Triumph has suffered severely from shell fire from the German fortress of Tsingtau.

Partial Russian successes in fierce fighting in the region of Warsaw and south of Przemyśl are reported officially from Petrograd.

JUDGE HOLDS CADET HAZING IS MURDER.

Annapolis, Md., Oct. 20.—Holding that the death of Cadet William R. Bowles of Mid-dletown, Md., as a result of a hazing escapade at St. John's college here May 26, was an act of murder, Judge Brashers, in delivering the charge to the grand jury, urged that the tragedy be proved.

WILL PROTECT AMERICANS

San Diego, Cal., Oct. 20.—With orders to protect the eight Americans supposed to be on board the Mexican steamer Mazatlan, the United States ship Raleigh left here for Ensenada, Mexico.

LONDON REVIEWS WAR OPERATIONS

Special to The Dispatch:—

London, Oct. 20, 11:40 A. M.—Plunging German attacks on the Allied line near the Belgian coast between Nieuport and Dixmude. There are similar tactics by the Allies in France between Arras and Roye, where progress is claimed, also a continued assault on Lille, still held by the Germans, and stubborn fighting in the vicinity of St. Mihiel, where for days the Allies have been trying to drive the Germans from their southernmost lodgment. These are acute points today in the sprawling battle area in France and Belgium.

GERMANS SEEK NEW ROUTE TO PARIS

London, Oct. 20, 2:55 P. M.—That the Allies are frustrating the attempt of the reinforced extreme right wing of the German to skirt the English Channel ports, with the supposed object of finding a new route to Paris, is indicated by the French official statement given out this afternoon, which asserts the Belgian army is maintaining its position on the River Yser.

CARMAN JURY READY TO HEAR EVIDENCE

Twelve Men Are Selected in Five Hours.

Mineola, N. Y., Oct. 20.—The jury which will determine whether it was Mrs. Florence Conklin Carman, who on June 30, thrust a revolver through a shattered window pane in the office of her husband, Dr. Edwin Carman of Freeport, and shot and killed Mrs. Louise Bailey, was completed in the supreme court of Nassau county here in five hours and twenty minutes.

Never before in the history of this county has a jury in a murder case been selected as quickly.

It was announced that night sessions might be held to complete the case before the end of the week.

Mrs. Carman, about whom District Attorney Lewis J. Smith and his assistants hope to weave a net of circumstantial evidence so strong that a verdict of murder in the first degree will be returned, was in the court room. Grave at times and at others smiling at her husband or her counsel, the wife of the Freeport physician paid close attention to every detail of the proceedings.

Italy Reduces Tax on Grain.

Rome, Oct. 20.—In view of the situation resulting from the war, King Victor Emmanuel has signed a decree reducing the import duties on cereals for the period of October 20 to March 21, 1915. The reductions which are based on the quintal, the equivalent of 220.4 pounds avoirdupois, will be as follows: Wheat, from $1.50 to 60c; corn, 23c to 10c; rye, 90c to 40c; oats, 80c to 40c; flour, $2.25 to $1.05, and corn flour from 63c to 20c.

Czar Takes Titles Away.

London, Oct. 20.—The Petrograd correspondent of Reuters Telegram company says that Emperor Nicholas has ordered German and Austrian subjects who have been granted the honorary rank of counselor of commerce, be deprived of the title.

ROUMANIA TO KEEP NEUTRAL

Cabinet Decides There Is No Reason to Change Course.

London, Oct. 20.—Roumania has no reason which will justify a deviation from the neutral course of the government.

This decision was reached at a cabinet meeting under the presidency of the new king Ferdinand at which were representatives of the various Roumanian parties, says the Vienna Reichpost, according to a dispatch received from Berlin by the Marconi Wireless Telegraph company.

SOUTH DAKOTA FIGHT OPENS

Sioux Falls, S. D., Oct. 20.—Various parties and factions in South Dakota have their speakers in the field and until the eve of the election on Nov. 3 the voters of the state will have opportunity to hear the issues of the campaign.

Governor Byrne is among the Republican speakers. Congressman Charles H. Burke, Republican nominee for election to the United States senate, also is in the field.

ACQUITS DIVINE OF ARSON

Detroit, Oct. 20.—Rev. Joseph A. Cottam, former pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church in Dearborn, near Detroit, charged with arson in connection with the burning of his parsonage there last winter was acquitted after the jury had deliberated twenty minutes.

On the night that his home burned he was to deliver a widely-advertised sermon on "Why I Am a Protestant." The defendant maintained that persons of contrary religious views were responsible for the fire.

PLANS FUND TO HIRE IDLE

Boston Mayor Would Raise $100,000 to Employ Unemployed.

Boston, Oct. 20.—The raising of a fund of $100,000 or more to provide work for thousands of unemployed mechanics and laborers is proposed by Mayor Curley.

SAYS 100,000 FACE DEATH

Starvation Threatens to Overtake Albanians by Christmas.

Chicago, Oct. 20.—"One hundred thousand men, women and children of Albania will die of starvation before Christmas unless succored by the United States," declared Rev. W. W. Howard of New York, a missionary, before a weekly meeting of Baptist ministers here.

The war is not to blame, he explained. The plight of the Albanians is due to the devastations by the Greeks and the Servians, which, he said, destroyed 300 villages and killed 200,000 men, women and children.

Shiploads of provisions must be sent in haste to prevent deadly famine, the speaker urged.

Explosives. No two nations have the same laws regulating the handling and storage of explosives.

POPULACE DESERTS ANTWERP

Invading Host Has Passed On.

BLACK RUIN MARKS HAVOC BY GERMANS

Damage by Bombardment Worse Than at Liege.

Antwerp, Oct. 20.—Antwerp is a dead city. The populace has fled and the streets are deserted. Smoking ruins still mark the havoc wrought by the German shell fire. The thoroughfares are piled with wreckage, millions of dollars worth of merchandise having been ruined in the wholesale district alone.

The invading host, however, has passed on. Only bluejackets and marine infantrymen from the German stations at Kiel, Cuxhaven and Wilhelmshaven now guard the city.

Detachments of sailors among them, recruits from the German merchant marine, were armed only with cutlasses and revolvers. They have several weeks behind the army, taking no part in the fighting, and evidently were destined for sea duty after the capture of a port.

Damage to City Light.

As the correspondent drove through the streets of Antwerp the city seemed to have suffered less from the bombardment than had been believed. Indications of damage wrought by the German shells were observed in all quarters of the city, but the destruction usually was confined to individual houses at widely scattered points, the great mass of intervening buildings being untouched.

How accurately the public buildings were avoided seemed to have been proved by a shell hole in the pavement at the side entrance to the city hall and in the destruction of a house across the street from that building. The Church of Our Lady, the pride of Antwerp, has a hole eight or ten feet in diameter in one transept window, and in an adjoining wall thirty feet above the floor. Otherwise this edifice was not damaged.

Big Guns Wreck Forts.

The effect of the big guns on Antwerp's outer fortifications was more striking than at Liege. Two armored turrets at Fort de Wavre-St. Catherine were put out of action with a single shot, their steel beds being broken in two and the heavy masses of metal hurled five or six yards away. In another fort the concrete embankment was pierced like an eggshell and the steel turret uprooted. Still another turret was completely upended and lies with its base pointing skyward and its gun buried beneath.

HOPES UNITED STATES WILL REMEMBER

London, Oct. 20.—King Albert of Belgium, in an interview with the representative of the Daily Telegraph said he hoped the American nation will remember that Belgium has been scrupulously exact in carrying out its obligations as a neutral country, and that the United States, as a neutral, should not forget how the neutrality of Belgium had been violated.

FRANCE SUMMONS CONSUL

New York, Oct. 20.—France has summoned to the colors Henry Goiran, French consul here, and Paul Hierre Moraschini, an attache of the consulate.

Goiran is a son of General Francois Goiran, former minister of war in France, and holds a lieutenantancy in the French reserves. Moraschini also has served with the French army.

SENATOR SHERMAN.

Flayed by Roosevelt in Speech at Chicago.

ROOSEVELT FLAYS SHERMAN

Colonel Declares He and Sullivan Are Bipartisan Machine Politicians.

Chicago, Oct. 20.—Ending a two-days' visit to Illinois, Colonel Theodore Roosevelt bitterly attacked United States Senator Sherman, Republican candidate for re-election, and Roger C. Sullivan, the Democratic candidate for the United States senate, in a speech here, in favor of the candidacy of Raymond Robins and other Progressives.

The old party candidates, he declared, were typical of the bipartisan machine politics, and the fight in Illinois, as in New York, he said, was not one of party, but of simply civic honesty.

VILLA SAYS PEACE IS VERY LIKELY

Situation Rests on Action of Convention.

Washington, Oct. 20.—General Villa has informed the United States government that, unless something unforeseen occurs, hostilities in Mexico are at an end, and that he will support any provisional government set up by the national convention at Aguas Calientes.

Villa said he would not accept Carranza as provisional president, but was satisfied he would not be chosen. The general understanding on all sides has been that Carranza himself does not desire to be provisional president, wishing to be free to enter the presidential election in the succeeding election.

The latest official reports to the state department describe in detail the visit Saturday of General Villa to the convention at Aguas Calientes.

When the commander of the division of the north arrived suspicions were awakened as to his purpose, but when he addressed the convention all doubt was removed.

General Villa said he came to pledge his support to the acts of the convention and to take the oath that he wanted to go on record so that no one could ever say that he was unpatriotic. He was received with storms of applause. Later he embraced General Obregon, over whom Villa's break with Carranza occurred recently. As the two generals greeted each other effusively the convention went wild with joy.

American Consular Agent Carothers, who accompanied General Villa, reported that the fighting general's visit had produced a profound impression on the delegates.

The convention is awaiting the arrival of delegates from General Zapata, and it is reported here that the southern chief himself may attend the assembly.

Los Angeles, Oct. 20.—Frederick M. Shepard, a lawyer and nominee for assemblyman, was arrested here on a federal warrant, charged with complicity in an opium smuggling plot.

POSITION OF GOVERNMENT TO BE DEFINED

Commissioner Sells Expected to Be Conservative in Law Enforcement.

CASE IS DENIED REHEARING

Bureau Officials Urge Merely Keeping Intoxicants From Indians—Commissioner Has Two Courses Left Open—Lower Court to Receive Mandate Within Thirty Days.

Washington, Oct. 20.—Regulations will be prepared soon and put in operation by the commissioner of Indian affairs giving force to the decision of the United States supreme court, handed down last May, to the effect that the treaty of 1855, negotiated with the Chippewa Indians prohibiting the liquor traffic, is still law, and may be enforced by the federal government.

The territory affected, which is "dry" in law and may soon become "dry" in fact, depending upon the rigor with which the treaty provision is enforced by the commissioner of Indian affairs, is located in the north central section of Minnesota, and embraces about one-fifth of the area of the state.

The enforcement of the decision handed down last May was suspended pending the action of the court on the application of the liquor men for a rehearing and reargument of what is known as the Bemidji liquor case. This application was denied in a decision made by Chief Justice White.

Denial by Chief Justice.

The decision was embodied in a brief memorandum prepared by the Chief Justice which merely cited the fact of denial, and which was filed with the clerk of the court for incorporation in the record. By the rules, the mandate of the supreme court will be handed down to the lower court within thirty days. In the meantime the Indian commissioner will prepare the regulations that will govern the field officers in Minnesota, and formal notice probably will be issued in due season informing the interests involved to what extent the government will go in enforcing the law.

In enforcing the law in Minnesota, the Indian commissioner has two courses open to him. He may seek summarily to prevent the sale of liquor in all the territory affected, much of which is occupied by whites, or he may adopt a course designed solely to prevent liquor finding its way into the hands of Indians.

The latter conservative course will be urged upon him strongly by officials of the bureau.

The general impression among those who ought to be advised of Commissioner Sells' views of this particular case is that he will proceed carefully and only with the view of keeping liquor away from the Indians.

ARMY MAY QUIT COLORADO

Wilson Considers Leaving Coal Strike in Hands of Militia.

Washington, Oct. 20.—President Wilson is considering the advisability of withdrawing federal troops from the Colorado coal fields as the result of the deadlock with the operators who refuse to join the president's proposal for settlement of the strike, already accepted by the miners. Governor Ammons is planning reorganization of the Colorado national guard to make presence of federal troops unnecessary.

The president told callers no negotiations are going on with the operators and that the changes they suggested in the mediation plan made it "valueless."

CABLES $5,000 AID TO CHINA

Red Cross Also Sends $3,000 for Relief of Earthquake Sufferers.

Washington, Oct. 20.—Five thousand dollars was cabled by the American Red Cross to Canton, China, to aid flood and famine sufferers.

Three thousand dollars was sent to Ambassador Morgenthau at Constantinople for relief of survivors of the earthquake in Konia province.

Situation Rests on Action of Convention.

Washington, Oct. 20.—General Villa has informed the United States government that, unless something unforeseen occurs, hostilities in Mexico are at an end, and that he will support any provisional government set up by the national convention at Aguas Calientes.

Villa said he would not accept Carranza as provisional president, but was satisfied he would not be chosen.

The general understanding on all sides has been that Carranza himself does not desire to be provisional president, wishing to be free to enter the presidential election in the succeeding election.

The latest official reports to the state department describe in detail the visit Saturday of General Villa to the convention at Aguas Calientes.

When the commander of the division of the north arrived suspicions were awakened as to his purpose, but when he addressed the convention all doubt was removed.

General Villa said he came to pledge his support to the acts of the convention and to take the oath that he wanted to go on record so that no one could ever say that he was unpatriotic. He was received with storms of applause. Later he embraced General Obregon, over whom Villa's break with Carranza occurred recently. As the two generals greeted each other effusively the convention went wild with joy.

American Consular Agent Carothers, who accompanied General Villa, reported that the fighting general's visit had produced a profound impression on the delegates.

The convention is awaiting the arrival of delegates from General Zapata, and it is reported here that the southern chief himself may attend the assembly.

POSITION OF GOVERNMENT TO BE DEFINED

Commissioner Sells Expected to Be Conservative in Law Enforcement.

CASE IS DENIED REHEARING

Bureau Officials Urge Merely Keeping Intoxicants From Indians—Commissioner Has Two Courses Left Open—Lower Court to Receive Mandate Within Thirty Days.

Washington, Oct. 20.—Regulations will be prepared soon and put in operation by the commissioner of Indian affairs giving force to the decision of the United States supreme court, handed down last May, to the effect that the treaty of 1855, negotiated with the Chippewa Indians prohibiting the liquor traffic, is still law, and may be enforced by the federal government.

The territory affected, which is "dry" in law and may soon become "dry" in fact, depending upon the rigor with which the treaty provision is enforced by the commissioner of Indian affairs, is located in the north central section of Minnesota, and embraces about one-fifth of the area of the state.

The enforcement of the decision handed down last May was suspended pending the action of the court on the application of the liquor men for a rehearing and reargument of what is known as the Bemidji liquor case. This application was denied in a decision made by Chief Justice White.

Denial by Chief Justice.

The decision was embodied in a brief memorandum prepared by the Chief Justice which merely cited the fact of denial, and which was filed with the clerk of the court for incorporation in the record. By the rules, the mandate of the supreme court will be handed down to the lower court within thirty days. In the meantime the Indian commissioner will prepare the regulations that will govern the field officers in Minnesota, and formal notice probably will be issued in due season informing the interests involved to what extent the government will go in enforcing the law.

In enforcing the law in Minnesota, the Indian commissioner has two courses open to him. He may seek summarily to prevent the sale of liquor in all the territory affected, much of which is occupied by whites, or he may adopt a course designed solely to prevent liquor finding its way into the hands of Indians.

The latter conservative course will be urged upon him strongly by officials of the bureau.

The general impression among those who ought to be advised of Commissioner Sells' views of this particular case is that he will proceed carefully and only with the view of keeping liquor away from the Indians.

ARMY MAY QUIT COLORADO

Wilson Considers Leaving Coal Strike in Hands of Militia.

Washington, Oct. 20.—President Wilson is considering the advisability of withdrawing federal troops from the Colorado coal fields as the result of the deadlock with the operators who refuse to join the president's proposal for settlement of the strike, already accepted by the miners. Governor Ammons is planning reorganization of the Colorado national guard to make presence of federal troops unnecessary.

The president told callers no negotiations are going on with the operators and that the changes they suggested in the mediation plan made it "valueless."

CABLES $5,000 AID TO CHINA

Red Cross Also Sends $3,000 for Relief of Earthquake Sufferers.

Washington, Oct. 20.—Five thousand dollars was cabled by the American Red Cross to Canton, China, to aid flood and famine sufferers.

Three thousand dollars was sent to Ambassador Morgenthau at Constantinople for relief of survivors of the earthquake in Konia province.

The Brainerd fans at the All American-All National ball game in Minneapolis Sunday numbered fully 300, and they were fully satisfied with the performance of Leslie Joe Bullet Bush on the mound. The last of the vanguard to return from the game were Wm. Wood and John Cummins, who arrived at Brainerd on the midnight train last night. The funniest stunt for Brainerd fans pulled off in the practice at the grounds was the shadow play indulged in while warming up. Using no ball, says Ed. Murphy, Bush whipped an imaginary one to the batter. He batted an imaginary bunt and Bush fielded it perfectly, tossed it to first, first threw to third catching a runner, thus making a double play. One near-sighted fan near Ed said: "Gee, but they are throwing that ball so fast I don't see it at all." Bush arrived on the field alone and was given a perfect ovation. And Bush, by the way, has a lot of fan friends in St. Paul and Minneapolis and the entire northwest. He will surely draw some crowds in Missoula, Montana and on the coast.

Boost For Better Roads
Mr. Schultz of Homebrook was in Pillager the first of the week. As usual, Mr. Schultz is boosting for better roads. If every farmer would take this up it would be but a short time when we would have them. Although there have been more real roads built in the past two years than ever before, there are still many improvements needed. For instance—the Brainerd road. It is a wonder to us that the commercial club of that city does not wake up to this road. Cass county will meet Crow Wing county at any time at the county line in the way of improvements, but at that the road in Cass county is far the best end. The county has expended a lot of money on this road the past summer, where Crow Wing has not spent a cent on her sandy end of the road.—Pillager Herald.

BRainerd AFTER THE CONVENTION
Mayor R. A. Henning Appointed Delegate to the Minnesota League of Municipalities
AT MANKATO ON OCTOBER 21
Brainerd to Make Effort to Land the 1915 State Convention of the League
Mayor R. A. Henning left on the noon train today for Minneapolis, where he expects to join other delegates on their way to the convention of the Minnesota League of Municipalities scheduled for Mankato, October 21 and 22. At last evening's council meeting Secretary Hansing of the Chamber of Commerce urged that a delegate be appointed to attend the convention, stating that an extended effort would be made to bring the convention to Brainerd in 1915.
This is the second annual convention of the league, the first having been held at St. Paul in 1913. Inasmuch as Mankato has been chosen for the second meeting place and is located in the southern part of the state, chances appear more favorable that a city located in the northern section of the state will be given favorable consideration when a vote is taken to decide what city will entertain the league in 1915. It is estimated that several hundred city officials will be in attendance while national municipal experts and city managers are on the program for talks and lectures.

The Brainerd fans at the All American-All National ball game in Minneapolis Sunday numbered fully 300, and they were fully satisfied with the performance of Leslie Joe Bullet Bush on the mound. The last of the vanguard to return from the game were Wm. Wood and John Cummins, who arrived at Brainerd on the midnight train last night. The funniest stunt for Brainerd fans pulled off in the practice at the grounds was the shadow play indulged in while warming up. Using no ball, says Ed. Murphy, Bush whipped an imaginary one to the batter. He batted an imaginary ball and Bush fielded it perfectly, tossed it to first, first threw to third catching a runner, thus making a double play. One near-sighted fan near Ed said: "Gee, but they are throwing that ball so fast I don't see it at all." Bush arrived on the field alone and was given a perfect ovation.
And Bush, by the way, has a lot of fan friends in St. Paul and Minneapolis and the entire northwest.
He will surely draw some crowds in Missoula, Montana and on the coast.

Boost For Better Roads
Mr. Schultz of Homebrook was in Pillager the first of the week. As usual, Mr. Schultz is boosting for better roads. If every farmer would take this up it would be but a short time when we would have them. Although there have been more real roads built in the past two years than ever before, there are still many improvements needed. For instance—the Brainerd road. It is a wonder to us that the commercial club of that city does not wake up to this road.
Cass county will meet Crow Wing county at any time at the county line in the way of improvements, but at that the road in Cass county is far the best end. The county has expended a lot of money on this road the past summer, where Crow Wing has not spent a cent on her sandy end of the road.—Pillager Herald.

BRAINERD AFTER THE CONVENTION

Mayor R. A. Henning Appointed Delegate to the Minnesota League of Municipalities

AT MANKATO ON OCTOBER 21

Brainerd to Make Effort to Land the 1915 State Convention of the League

Mayor R. A. Henning left on the noon train today for Minneapolis, where he expects to join other delegates on their way to the convention of the Minnesota League of Municipalities scheduled for Mankato, October 21 and 22. At last evening's council meeting Secretary Hansing of the Chamber of Commerce urged that a delegate be appointed to attend the convention, stating that an extended effort would be made to bring the convention to Brainerd in 1915.

This is the second annual convention of the league, the first having been held at St. Paul in 1913. Inas-much as Mankato has been chosen for the second meeting place and is located in the southern part of the state, chances appear more favorable that a city located in the northern section of the state will be given favorable consideration when a vote is taken to decide what city will entertain the league in 1915. It is estimated that several hundred city officials will be in attendance while national municipal experts and city managers are on the program for talks and lectures.

BEST LAXATIVE FOR BOWELS—"CASCARETS"

They Clean Liver, Sweeten Stomach;
End Sick Headache, Bad Breath,
Indigestion, Constipation

Get a 10-cent box.

Are you keeping your bowels, liver, and stomach clean, pure and fresh with Cascarets, or merely forcing a passageway every few days with Salts, Cathartic Pills, Castor Oil or Purgative Waters?

Stop having a bowel wash-day. Let Cascarets thoroughly cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the sour and fermenting food and foul gases, take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the system all the constipated waste matter and poisons in the bowels.

A Cascaret tonight will make you feel great by morning. They work while you sleep—never gripe sickens or cause any inconvenience, and cost only 10 cents a box from your druggist. Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then and never have headache, biliousness, coated tongue, indigestion, sour stomach or constipated bowels. Cas-carets belong in every household.
Children just love to take them.—Adv.

RESCUED FROM QUICKSAND

Massachusetts Man Freed After Forty-eight Hours.

Ware, Mass., Oct. 20.—After forty-eight hours' imprisonment in quicksand twenty-five feet below the surface of the earth, Maurice Allen was rescued by a gang of fifty firemen, policemen and citizens, who had to dig a trench fifty feet long and thirty feet deep to reach him.

Allen was conscious when rescued, but very weak. He said he had been unable to help himself as his feet were held by a piece of plank.

Read Character by the Tongue.

The "science" of glassomancy consists in reading people's characters by the shape and size of the tongue. Thus, according to glassomancers, a long tongue shows frankness, a short one dissimulation, a broad one unreservedness, a narrow one concentration, a long and broad tongue inclination to gossip, a long and narrow one frankness. Those who possess short and broad tongues are untruthful; those whose tongues are short and narrow are sly as well as bad tempered. Hold out your tongue!—Boston Globe.

PROHIBIT AUTO AND MOTOR BOAT

Game Wardens in the Northern Part of the State Fear Extermination of Small Game

Declaring that unless some step is taken to prevent the use of automobiles for hunting small game, George Bradley, president of the Minnesota game and fish commission, Fred Myers of Biwabik, vice-president of the commission and Game Warden Archie Boyd of Duluth, who were in Hibbing as guests of Game Warden George Wood said: "Small game will soon be exterminated under existing conditions," says the Tribune of that city.

"Because of the fact that in an automobile a hunter can get to and from the field in a short time it is hard for the wardens to get them with the goods. Birds will pay no attention to a passing automobile which give the hunter a pot shot in many cases, whereas the pedestrian hunter puts the birds to flight as soon as he is seen."

The gentlemen all agreed that the present bird limit is too high and that there should be an alien gun law, a motor boat and an automobile law prohibiting the use of the automobile and the motorboat in hunting and prohibiting the alien from carrying arms for hunting purposes without first having secured non-resident licenses.

INDIAN COUNTRY WILL BE DRY

Congressman Miller Must Have Been Misinformed When he Reported Postponement

LIQUORMEN'S HEARING REFUSED

Supreme Court Has Denied a Reopening of the Case and 30 Days Grace Will be Given

According to the report printed below from the Minneapolis Journal some one must have blundered when the report was sent out from Washington by Congressman Miller, of the Eighth district, that the department has decided to postpone any action in the matter of the "dry" country under the Indian treaty in Northern Minnesota. The Journal says:

Bemidji, Detroit, Cass Lake and many other towns in the territory covered by the Chippewa treaty of 1855 will be made "dry" by order of the Indian bureau, if the authorities see fit to carry out the treaty provisions. It is expected they will do so. The supreme court at Washington today denied the application of the liquor interests for a rehearing of the case brought up from Bemidji, previously decided against the liquor men and it is now up to the Indian bureau.

The 1855 treaty covers a large area of northern Minnesota, from Detroit east to the iron range and south as far as Brainerd, and says that the sale of intoxicating liquor shall be forbidden in the "Indian country." Congress could set aside this provision, but it never has. In 1911 "Pussfoot" Johnson then with the law enforcement division of the Indian bureau, closed many saloons in this district, but Bemidji saloonkeepers went into court and got an injunction from the late United States Judge C. A. Willard, who held that the treaty provisions are no longer in force. This was reversed by the supreme court last May and the liquor interests filed an injunction for a rehearing.

The supreme court today denied this application.

Under the practice of the court the mandamus in this case will not be sent to the lower court for 30 days. This will give the liquor dealers time to close out their business or remove to other localities where liquor is permitted. The Indian bureau also will have time to formulate its plans for the enforcement of the law. Indian Commissioner Cato Sells has already declared that he will do everything in his power to keep liquor from the Indians, and it is expected that he will enforce the law strictly in that part of the treaty country where Indians still live.

This morning's Duluth News-Tribune says in regard to the "Id.:" Licenses for trafficking in liquor under which approximately 100 saloons are operating in the so-called Indian treaty territory of Minnesota are believed to be near a summary expiration because of a decision of the supreme court of the United States.

Yesterday this tribunal announced that it stood on its decision of June, upholding the right of Indian bureau officials to shut up saloons in territory ceded to the United States by Indians under the so-called treaty of 1855, over which treaty as applied to the liquor traffic there has been waged a vigorous legal fight.

Cato Sells, head of the Indian bureau, made no comment for publication on the reaffirmance of the findings in the litigation earlier in the year. In a sentence the supreme court states that he and his subordinates have an absolute right to prevent trafficking in liquor in any way whatsoever in the territory stipulated by the treaty made nearly 60 years ago.

Roughly, the territory may be described as comprising portions of St. Louis, Koochiching, Cass, Crow Wing, Beltrami, Clearwater, Itasca and Aitkin counties. The territory lies east of and adjacent to Grand Rapids, thence to Bagley and from Brainerd to within five miles of International Falls. The chief cities and villages within this restricted zone are: Brainerd, Bemidji, Grand Rapids, Hibbing, Walker, Park Rapids, Crosby, Deerwood, Aitkin, Coleraine, Blackduck, Big Falls, Northome.

It is declared in Washington that the number of Indians in the restricted district totals less than 7,000 while the whites are understood to number 450,000.

From all that could be gathered from various sources—Washington, Duluth and the treaty territory—the "situation" rests wholly with Commissioner Sells.

If the treaty should be enforced only with reference to those places where Indians reside not more than two dozen saloons would have to shut up shop. If, however, the commissioner should decide to employ to the full the authority which the court has held that he has, it would mean the total elimination of liquor traffic in the territory described in the foregoing. The amount of money represented by the licenses now in operation is concededly a very large sum. The license fee, obviously, varies in the restricted zone.

The saloonkeepers of the territory, as well as brewers and distillers, necessarily joined in the legal struggle before the supreme court. They wanted a rehearing on the findings made public in June. This the court has denied.

In the event that the commissioner of Indian affairs shall enforce the treaty strictly, it is expected that "a reasonable time" will be given for the disposal of stocks of liquor and a closing up of the business of each saloon or bar in order that the measure of loss be kept to the minimum.

LITTLE FALLS WINS

Brainerd Eleven Goes Down to Defeat to the Tune of 19 to 0—No Game on Oct. 24

Little Falls high school added another to their list of victories Saturday afternoon by defeating Brainerd high by a score of 19 to 0. It was the first victory of a Little Falls football team over one from Brainerd for several years.

The game was well played and the score held down low enough to make the contest interesting from the spectator's point of view. The Brainerd bunch was heavier than the Little Falls players, but lacked speed, the most conspicuous feature in the playing of the local eleven. Day, the Brainerd backfield man who was under protest, played in the game Saturday. Brainerd brought down a good sized bunch of rooters and the attendance at the game was good.

It is the third consecutive victory this season by the Little Falls eleven and they are as yet undefeated, having accumulated the scalps of Wadena, Alexandria and Brainerd highs in three weeks playing. No game has been scheduled for next Saturday, but the fast St. Cloud high school, probably the hardest game of the year, will be played at the fair grounds here October 31.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

At the Columbia

Have you ever felt chuck full of things to say but can't get them down on paper. That's the way the management are fixed today. They want to say a whole lot about their comedy with "Chick" Evans, golf champion and the famous Sweedie who with a strong supporting company have, without any doubt, produced the greatest two reel comedy of modern times. Sweedie, who now receives one of the highest salaries ever paid a star is a great golfer himself and to see these two men work comedy together is to see the last word in the comedy line. Advance notices fairly boost it to the skies. To miss it means a loss not to be estimated in dollars and cents. Marc McDermott appears in the sixth of his series. Each installment a complete story. It will please and at times hold you breathless. Another drama completes the bill. A new program of music will be featured. The management wish to convey to the public their absolute confidence in the show for Thursday and Friday. Four distinct features make up the bill. Mary Pickford in "Love Among the Roses" is an interesting clean and wholesome offering and should completely take those who follow the work of this famous star by storm. It promises to even excel last week's picture. The pictures of the war this time are taken in the midst of Berlin and is a clean cut scoop for the Selig Company of Chicago. We have them and they are the real things. Further announcements due for tomorrow.

At the Grand

This run of "Trey O' Hearts" is the same exciting interesting story as ever. It charms the crowd each week on the usual nights and many are anxious to know the outcome of the two sisters while others are watching the hero.

Tomorrow and Thursday we have booked the strong feature "Jim Webb, Senator." This is a heavy drama of the present day. It exposes the methods used by lobbyists. You will be interested from start to finish. There is a punch in every picture ending with a wonderful moral.

A dollar bill for 10 cents.

The bride was beautifully gowned in white silk messaline. She wore a bridal veil and carried pink carnations. The bridesmaid was Miss Adeline White and the best man was Mr. David Lyons.

MERRIFIELD ROBBERY

Thief Enters Store and Hotel of Clayton Hollingsworth and Appropriates $18

A sneak thief entered the store and hotel of Clayton Hollingsworth in Merrifield and appropriated $18. A transient was suspected but no arrests were made as there was no constable there, the one appointed not having qualified. It would appear that in a case like this the law would provide some means of apprehending a suspect. As it is, Merrifield's constable had better qualify in order to cover future contingencies.

RESCUED FROM QUICKSAND

Massachusetts Man Freed After Forty-eight Hours.

Ware, Mass., Oct. 20.—After forty-eight hours' imprisonment in quicksand twenty-five feet below the surface of the earth, Maurice Allen was rescued by a gang of fifty firemen, policemen and citizens, who had to dig a trench fifty feet long and thirty feet deep to reach him.

Allen was conscious when rescued, but very weak. He said he had been unable to help himself as his feet were held by a piece of plank.

Read Character by the Tongue.

The "science" of glossomancy consists in reading people's characters by the shape and size of the tongue. Thus, according to glossomancers, a long tongue shows frankness, a short one dissimulation, a broad one unreservedness, a narrow one concentration, a long and broad tongue inclination to gossip, a long and narrow one frankness. Those who possess short and broad tongues are untruthful; those whose tongues are short and narrow are sly as well as bad tempered. Hold out your tongue!—Boston Globe.

Drawing the Line.

"I want you to read my speeches," said the candidate. "Couldn't think of it," replied Mr. Dustin Stax. "Why, I thought you would be interested. You have always subscribed to my campaign fund." "Yes, I'm glad to be an old subscriber. But I'm hanged if I'll be a constant reader."—Washington Star.

PROHIBIT AUTO AND MOTOR BOAT Game Wardens in the Northern Part of the State Fear Extermination of Small Game

Declaring that unless some step is taken to prevent the use of automobiles for hunting small game, George Bradley, president of the Minnesota game and fish commission, Fred Myers of Biwabik, vice-president of the commission and Game Warden Archie Boyd of Duluth, who were in Hibbing as guests of Game Warden George Wood said: "Small game will soon be exterminated under existing conditions," says the Tribune of that city.

"Because of the fact that in an automobile a hunter can get to and from the field in a short time it is hard for the wardens to get them with the goods. Birds will pay no attention to a passing automobile which give the hunter a pot shot in many cases, whereas the pedestrian hunter puts the birds to flight as soon as he is seen."

The gentlemen all agreed that the present bird limit is too high and that there should be an alien gun law, a motor boat and an automobile law prohibiting the use of the automobile and the motorboat in hunting and prohibiting the alien from carrying arms for hunting purposes without first having secured non-resident licenses.

OUCH! MY BACK! RUB LUMBAGO PAIN AWAY

When your back is sore and lame or lumbago, sciatica or rheumatism has you stiffened up, don't suffer! Get a small trial bottle of old, honest "St. Jacob's Oil" at any drug store, pour a little in your hand and rub it right on your aching back, and by the time you count fifty, the soreness and lameness is gone.

Don't stay crippled! This soothing, penetrating oil needs to be used only once. It takes the pain right out and ends the misery. It is magical, yet absolutely harmless and doesn't burn the skin. Nothing else stops lumbago, sciatica, backache or rheumatism so promptly. It never disappoints!—Advt.

INDIAN COUNTRY WILL BE DRY

Congressman Miller Must Have Been Misinformed When he Reported Postponement

LIQUORMEN'S HEARING REFUSED

Supreme Court Has Denied a Reopening of the Case and 30 Days Grace Will be Given

According to the report printed below from the Minneapolis Journal some one must have blundered when the report was sent out from Washington by Congressman Miller, of the Eighth district, that the department has decided to postpone any action in the matter of the "dry" country under the Indian treaty in Northern Minnesota. The Journal says:

Bemidji, Detroit, Cass Lake and many other towns in the territory covered by the Chippewa treaty of 1855 will be made "dry" by order of the Indian bureau, if the authorities see fit to carry out the treaty provisions. It is expected they will do so. The supreme court at Washington today denied the application of the liquor interests for a rehearing of the case brought up from Bemidji, previously decided against the liquor men and it is now up to the Indian bureau.

The 1855 treaty covers a large area of northern Minnesota, from Detroit east to the iron range and south as far as Brainerd, and says that the sale of intoxicating liquor shall be forbidden in the "Indian country." Congress could set aside this provision, but it never has. In 1911 "Pussfoot" Johnson then with the law enforcement division of the Indian bureau, closed many saloons in this district, but Bemidji saloonkeepers went into court and got an injunction from the late United States Judge C. A. Willard, who held that the treaty provisions are no longer in force. This was reversed by the supreme court last May and the liquor interests filed an injunction for a rehearing.

The supreme court today denied this application.

Under the practice of the court the mandamus in this case will not be sent to the lower court for 30 days. This will give the liquor dealers time to close out their business or remove to other localities where liquor is permitted. The Indian bureau also will have time to formulate its plans for the enforcement of the law. Indian Commissioner Cato Sells has already declared that he will do everything in his power to keep liquor from the Indians, and it is expected that he will enforce the law strictly in that part of the treaty country where Indians still live.

This morning's Duluth News-Tribune says in regard to the "Idi": Licenses for trafficking in liquor under which approximately 100 saloons are operating in the so-called Indian treaty territory of Minnesota are believed to be near a summary expiration because of a decision of the supreme court of the United States.

Yesterday this tribunal announced that it stood on its decision of June, upholding the right of Indian bureau officials to shut up saloons in territory ceded to the United States by Indians under the so-called treaty of 1855, over which treaty as applied to the liquor traffic there has been waged a vigorous legal fight.

Cato Sells, head of the Indian bureau, made no comment for publication on the reaffirmance of the findings in the litigation earlier in the year. In a sentence the supreme court states that he and his subordinates have an absolute right to prevent trafficking in liquor in any way whatsoever in the territory stipulated by the treaty made nearly 60 years ago.

Roughly, the territory may be described as comprising portions of St. Louis, Koochiching, Cass, Crow Wing, Beltrami, Clearwater, Itasca and Aitkin counties. The territory lies east of and adjacent to Grand Rapids, thence to Bagley and from Brainerd to within five miles of International Falls. The chief cities and villages within this restricted zone are: Brainerd, Bemidji, Grand Rapids, Hibbing, Walker, Park Rapids, Crosby, Deerwood, Aitkin, Coleraine, Blackduck, Big Falls, Northome.

It is declared in Washington that the number of Indians in the restricted district totals less than 7,000 while the whites are understood to number 450,000.

From all that could be gathered from various sources—Washington, Duluth and the treaty territory—the "situation" rests wholly with Commissioner Sells.

If the treaty should be enforced only with reference to those places where Indians reside not more than two dozen saloons would have to shut up shop. If, however, the commissioner should decide to employ to the full the authority which the court has held that he has, it would mean the total elimination of liquor traffic in the territory described in the foregoing. The amount of money represented by the licenses now in operation is concededly a very large sum. The license fee, obviously, varies in the restricted zone.

The saloonkeepers of the territory, as well as brewers and distillers, necessarily joined in the legal struggle before the supreme court. They wanted a rehearing on the findings made public in June. This the court has denied.

In the event that the commissioner of Indian affairs shall enforce the treaty strictly, it is expected that "a reasonable time" will be given for the disposal of stocks of liquor and a closing up of the business of each saloon or bar in order that the measure of loss be kept to the minimum.

LITTLE FALLS WINS

Brainerd Eleven Goes Down to Defeat to the Tune of 19 to 0—No Game on Oct. 24

Little Falls high school added another to their list of victories Saturday afternoon by defeating Brainerd high by a score of 19 to 0. It was the first victory of a Little Falls football team over one from Brainerd for several years.

The game was well played and the score held down low enough to make the contest interesting from the spectator's point of view. The Brainerd bunch was heavier than the Little Falls players, but lacked speed, the most conspicuous feature in the playing of the local eleven. Day, the Brainerd backfield man who was under protest, played in the game Saturday. Brainerd brought down a good sized bunch of rooters and the attendance at the game was good.

It is the third consecutive victory this season by the Little Falls eleven and they are as yet undefeated, having accumulated the scalps of Wadena, Alexandria and Brainerd highs in three weeks playing. No game has been scheduled for next Saturday, but the fast St. Cloud high school, probably the hardest game of the year, will be played at the fair grounds here October 31.

The lineup:
Little Falls re Brainerd
Brannen re Blake
L. Kay rt Warner
McNally rg Mahlum
Graham e Norquist
Palmer lg Hagberg
Belanger rt Eckholm
Elvig le Ries

Longley rh Carlson
Levine lh Koop
Meyers fb Day

Substitutes—Gordon for McNally, Lauermaun for Brannen, Molstad for Ries, Fall for Molstad.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

At the Columbia

Have you ever felt chuck full of things to say but can't get them down on paper. That's the way the management are fixed today. They want to say a whole lot about their comedy with "Chick" Evans, golf champion and the famous Sweedie who with a strong supporting company have, without any doubt, produced the greatest two reel comedy of modern times. Sweedie who now receives one of the highest salaries ever paid a star is a great golfer himself and to see these two men work comedy together is to see the last word in the comedy line. Advance notices fairly boost it to the skies. To miss it means a loss not to be estimated in dollars and cents. Marc McDermott appears in the sixth of his series. Each installment a complete story. It will please and at times hold you breathless. Another drama completes the bill. A new program of music will be featured. The management wish to convey to the public their absolute confidence in the show for Thursday and Friday. Four distinct features make up the bill. Mary Pickford in "Love Among the Roses" is an interesting clean and wholesome offering and should completely take those who follow the work of this famous star by storm. It promises to even excel last week's picture. The pictures of the war this time are taken in the midst of Berlin and is a clean cut scoop for the Selig Company of Chicago. We have them and they are the real things. Further announcements due for tomorrow.

At the Grand

This run of "Trey O' Hearts" is the same exciting interesting story as ever. It charms the crowd each week on the usual nights and many are anxious to know the outcome of the two sisters while others are watching the hero.

Tomorrow and Thursday we have booked the strong feature "Jim Webb, Senator." This is a heavy drama of the present day. It exposes the methods used by lobbyists. You will be interested from start to finish. There is a punch in every picture ending with a wonderful moral.

A dollar bill for 10 cents.

A STEP BACKWARD

The announcement has been made from Washington that the postmaster general favors a change in the system of the rural delivery of mail of the country, and would place it back to the old contract system similar to the star route system that was in vogue so many years and which was the most unsatisfactory method that could be imagined. If Mr. Burleson has his way about it rural delivery carriers will have to bid for the work and will obtain the job only by bidding lower than anyone else. Under the old star route system a bidder could bid on as much territory as he wanted to, including several states, in turn the successful bidder would submit by bids each individual route. The contractor would become a big corporation and amass a fortune on the work of his hirelings, whose compensation would depend on how eager they were to outbid someone else, and usually they would be much underpaid. Under the old system when the government maintained a star route from Brainerd to Cross Lake the bidding on that contract was such that the original contractor paid but $275 a year for three round trips a week and the sub-contractor had to furnish rigs and keep six horses. He figured on some passenger business to help him break even but if that failed him he went broke. After the department changed the method and let the contract to the man who actually carried the mail between these two points they paid him as high as $875 per year. The general contractor was making at least $500 a year off the sub-contractor on this one route. The Brainerd-Vineand star route, the only one of the star routes still running out of the Brainerd office, pays over $900 per annum and was operated under the old system for about $300 to the sub-contractor.

If the postmaster general changes the method from what it now is he will have instead of carriers who are painstaking and careful, a lot of drivers whose sole ambition will be to put in the time and draw their pay, and it won't be much pay they will have coming. Rural carriers are now paid from $1100 to $1200 per annum, they own their own rigs, have to keep up to a certain standard in efficiency as regards the delivery of mail and their personal conduct; they are not overpaid and a great mistake will be made if this step backward is taken, for if it is applied to rural carriers, it might as well be extended to city carriers and make the delivery of mail a free for all, dependent on who would do it for the cheapest without regard to efficiency and ability.

It sounds like a farce.

UNION LABOR FRIENDLY

The Duluth News-Tribune says: That union labor in St. Louis county will give W. E. Lee, republican nominee for governor, a majority vote is the declaration of Richard M. Funck, has been a member of the Supreme Court the past three years and for fourteen years before that served on the district bench.

The splendid record which the Minnesota Supreme Court is making, is due to a large extent to Judge Bunn's great legal ability. His decisions are regarded as masterpieces of legal learning.

Judge Bunn's honesty and special fitness are recognized by the bar of the state, as practically every lawyer in Minnesota is heartily in favor of his election. This view is also held by a large part of Minnesota's representative press and by men in every county whose opinions are valued highly.

secretary at republican headquarters, who has been surveying conditions with relation to the union labor situation.

"We are receiving daily assurances of support from union men," said Secretary Funck yesterday. "The St. Louis Federation of Labor went on record at the convention here last July against the sale of prison-made goods in Minnesota. The fact that Mr. Hammond was one of three men to vote last March against the bill limiting the sale of prison-made goods which compete with goods produced in the legitimate avenues of commerce is a feature of his legislative career which he is having a hard time to explain to the satisfaction of union men, especially in view of the fact that 302 of his colleagues voted for the measure."

"Mr. Hammond's record shows that he voted for the rivers and harbors bill, which called for a $53,000,000 appropriation and which was later cut to $20,000,000. In the record of prodigal extravagance with public funds which the democratic administration is showing, Mr. Hammond's vote appears to have been always on the side of reckless appropriations."

"Mr. Lee has the farming vote of the state behind him solidly, and we are getting the most encouraging reports from all districts. Lee landslide is the way the situation looks," was the concluding observation of the county secretary.

An edict has gone forth in Germany to prevent the killing of calves over a certain weight and cows under a certain age in order to provide against a meat famine another year.

The indemnities collected from Belgian cities has taken all the money away and business has come to a standstill. No one has money to pay for labor and employment has ceased. Starvation is the inevitable result.

The Superior Telegram says that it is true that a man who has no opinion about public policies does not need to affiliate with any political party, but the most of the voters have opinions about what is good for the public welfare.

A black fox valued at $2,000 dug out of his enclosure near Baudette and was followed by eight red foxes. The owner succeeded in capturing all but the black one, and thus doth history repeat itself that the big fish are always the ones that get away.

The Pelican Better Farming club has decided to build a club hall 20x34 which will be used for entertainments as well as regular club meetings. The club has a membership of 69 and at the last meeting 45 members were present which speaks well for the organization. There are many of these clubs throughout the county, organized since the employment of a county agent, and their advent is one of much good to the farming community.

The Saturday Evening Post tells of a coin handling machine which has reached such a degree of perfection that it will take a bucket full of coins of all denominations, sort them, pick out all the mutilated pieces and reject them, do all the others up in neat bundles of standard sizes—such as twenty-five pennies in a bundle—count them, add them all up together, and hand out a slip of paper on which is printed the total sum in dollars and cents. An electric motor turns the crank that does the work.

Game Preserve Extended

Local hunters who in past years have visited the country tributary to Itasca Park and secured their large game there many have to find new hunting grounds this year as the result of action reported to be taken by the state forestry board, says the Park Rapids Enterprise. It is reported that the state board has secured from the Weyerhaeuser and Akeley and Walker companies leases of their lands near the Itasca park which will permit the board to post these lands against hunters. The country tributary to the park has been a favorite hunting ground for quite a number of hunters and the action of the forestry board does not prove very acceptable to them. The action will doubtless mean that as a game preserve the park has been materially increased in size and will therefore be more effective as a preserve than formerly and will become a greater refuge for game birds and animals. At present it is surprising to see the number of game birds that inhabit the park. Partridges can be seen every day sitting along the road singly and in bunches in perfect security and showing no fear of harm, while deer are known to be in the park in large numbers. It also is surprising how quickly the deer learn that they are secure within the park and as soon as the hunting season begins and the hunters get into the woods the deer for miles around find their way into the park where they remain until the close of the season.

There are quite a number of private tracts of land tributary to the park which the forestry board will not be able to post but by posting the lands of the companies named the hunting will be practically done away within the country that is now tributary to the limit.

A Family Affair.

Papa and the three children were to give mother a birthday gift. The youngest boy was chosen to make the presentation address. He prepared it very carefully and thus delivered it in due season:

Winfield Scott Hammond

Winfield Scott Hammond, candidate for governor of Minnesota, will speak at the Gardner auditorium on Friday evening, October 23.

In his whirlwind tour of Minnesota, Congressman Hammond has made Brainerd an important point in his campaign trip and all voters generally will be glad to attend the memorable meeting and hear his message, covering the issues of the present campaign and his platform.

Congressman Hammond is an orator of pleasing personality. A program is being prepared by the committee in charge in Brainerd and it is expected to precede Mr. Hammond's address by a short speech by Dr. J. A. DuBois, of Sauk Center, candidate for congressman of the sixth district.

Historic Huy.
Huy, in Belgium, is the burial place of Peter the Hermit, who aroused Europe to holy zeal and inspired the first crusade against the Saracens. He founded here the abbey of Neufmoutier, and it is within its limits his ashes are interred. The single fortress is perhaps stronger than any one of the defenses at Liege, the citadel being partly excavated in solid rock. It commands the passage of the Meuse, on both banks of which the city is picturesquely situated amid lofty rocks. The church of Notre Dame, a graceful Gothic edifice, was begun in 1311. The town is seventeen miles southwest of Liege. Its industries are paper, leather, beer, zinc, spirits and wine.

Papal Terms.
Nine popes reigned less than one month, thirty less than one year, eleven more than twenty years and six over twenty-three years. The reign of St. Peter was the longest in the history of the papacy, being seven years in Antioch and twenty-five in Rome. Next to him in length of service was Pius IX., whose death in 1878 terminated a reign of thirty-one years, and it is not a little remarkable that the third should have been his successor, the illustrious Leo XIII., who occupied the papal throne for over twenty-five years.

Unique Race Course.
What is undoubtedly the most novel automobile race course in the world is found at Saidu, Utah, where natural salt beds furnish the roadway. The beds are on the line of the Western Pacific railroad and are sixty-five miles in length and eight miles in width, furnishing a smooth, unbroken surface, level as a table and are from two to twenty feet in depth. The salt is crystallized, 98 per cent pure and white as snow. The surface is hard and dry.—Argonaut.

A STEP BACKWARD

The announcement has been made from Washington that the postmaster general favors a change in the system of the rural delivery of mail of the country, and would place it back to the old contract system similar to the star route system that was in vogue so many years and which was the most unsatisfactory method that could be imagined. If Mr. Burleson has his way about it rural delivery carriers will have to bid for the work and will obtain the job only by bidding lower than anyone else. Under the old star route system a bidder could bid on as much territory as he wanted to, including several states, in turn the successful bidder would submit by bids each individual route. The contractor would become a big corporation and amass a fortune on the work of his hirelings, whose compensation would depend on how eager they were to outbid someone else, and usually they would be much underpaid. Under the old system when the government maintained a star route from Brainerd to Cross Lake the bidding on that contract was such that the original contractor paid but $275 a year for three round trips a week and the sub-contractor had to furnish rigs and keep six horses. He figured on some passenger business to help him break even but if that failed him he went broke. After the department changed the method and let the contract to the man who actually carried the mail between these two points they paid him as high as $875 per year. The general contractor was making at least $500 a year off the sub-contractor on this one route. The Brainerd-Vinebush star route, the only one of the star routes still running out of the Brainerd office, pays over $900 per annum and was operated under the old system for about $300 to the sub-contractor.

If the postmaster general changes the method from what it now is he will have instead of carriers who are painstaking and careful, a lot of drivers whose sole ambition will be to put in the time and draw their pay, and it won't be much pay they will have coming. Rural carriers are now paid from $1100 to $1200 per annum, they own their own rigs, have to keep up to a certain standard in efficiency as regards the delivery of mail and their personal conduct; they are not overpaid and a great mistake will be made if this step backward is taken, for if it is applied to rural carriers, it might as well be extended to city carriers and make the delivery of mail a free for all, dependent on who would do it the cheapest without regard to efficiency and ability.

It sounds like a farce.

UNION LABOR FRIENDLY

The Duluth News-Tribune says: That union labor in St. Louis county will give W. E. Lee, republican nominee for governor, a majority vote is the declaration of Richard M. Funck, has been a member of the Supreme Court the past three years and for fourteen years before that served on the district bench.

The splendid record which the Minnesota Supreme Court is making is due, to a large extent, to Judge Bunn's great legal ability. His decisions are regarded as masterpieces of legal learning.

Judge Bunn's honesty and special fitness are recognized by the bar of the state, as practically every lawyer in Minnesota is heartily in favor of his election. This view is also held by a large part of Minnesota's representative press and by men in every county whose opinions are valued highly.

secretary at republican headquarters, who has been surveying conditions with relation to the union labor situation.

"We are receiving daily assurances of support from union men," said Secretary Funck yesterday. "The St. Louis Federation of Labor went on record at the convention here last July against the sale of prison-made goods in Minnesota. The fact that Mr. Hammond was one of three men to vote last March against the bill limiting the sale of prison-made goods which compete with goods produced in the legitimate avenues of commerce is a feature of his legislative career which he is having a hard time to explain to the satisfaction of union men, especially in view of the fact that 302 of his colleagues voted for the measure."

"Mr. Hammond's record shows that he voted for the rivers and harbors bill, which called for a $53,000,000 appropriation and which was later cut to $20,000,000. In the record of prodigal extravagance with public funds which the democratic administration is showing, Mr. Hammond's vote appears to have been always on the side of reckless appropriations."

"Mr. Lee has the farming vote of the state behind him solidly, and we are getting the most encouraging reports from all districts. Lee landslide is the way the situation looks," was the concluding observation of the county secretary.

An edict has gone forth in Germany to prevent the killing of calves over a certain weight and cows under a certain age in order to provide against a meat famine another year.

The indemnities collected from Belgian cities has taken all the money away and business has come to a standstill. No one has money to pay for labor and employment has ceased. Starvation is the inevitable result.

The Superior Telegram says that it is true that a man who has no opinion about public policies does not need to affiliate with any political party, but the most of the voters have opinions about what is good for the public welfare.

A black fox valued at $2,000 dug out of his enclosure near Baudette and was followed by eight red foxes. The owner succeeded in capturing all but the black one, and thus doth history repeat itself that the big fish are always the ones that get away.

The Pelican Better Farming club has decided to build a club hall 20x34 which will be used for entertainments as well as regular club meetings. The club has a membership of 69 and at the last meeting 45 members were present which speaks well for the organization. There are many of these clubs throughout the county, organized since the employment of a county agent, and their advent is one of much good to the farming community.

The Saturday Evening Post tells of a coin handling machine which has reached such a degree of perfection that it will take a bucket full of coins of all denominations, sort them, pick out all the mutilated pieces and reject them, do all the others up in neat bundles of standard sizes—such as twenty-five pennies in a bundle—count them, add them all up together, and hand out a slip of paper on which is printed the total sum in dollars and cents. An electric motor turns the crank that does the work.

Game Preserve Extended

Local hunters who in past years have visited the country tributary to Itasca Park and secured their large game there many have to find new hunting grounds this year as the result of action reported to be taken by the state forestry board, says the Park Rapids Enterprise. It is reported that the state board has secured from the Weyerhaeuser and Akeley and Walker companies leases of their lands near the Itasca park which will permit the board to post these lands against hunters. The country tributary to the park has been a favorite hunting ground for quite a number of hunters and the action of the forestry board does not prove very acceptable to them. The action will doubtless mean that as a game preserve the park has been materially increased in size and will therefore be more effective as a preserve than formerly and will become a greater refuge for game birds and animals. At present it is surprising to see the number of game birds that inhabit the park. Partridges can be seen every day sitting along the road singly and in bunches in perfect security and showing no fear of harm, while deer are known to be in the park in large numbers. It also is surprising how quickly the deer learn that they are secure within the park and as soon as the hunting season begins and the hunters get into the woods the deer for miles around find their way into the park where they remain until the close of the season. There are quite a number of private tracts of land tributary to the park which the forestry board will not be able to post but by posting the lands of the companies named the hunting will be practically done away within the country that is now tributary to the limit.

Historic Huy.

Huy, in Belgium, is the burial place of Peter the Hermit, who aroused Europe to holy zeal and inspired the first crusade against the Saracens. He founded here the abbey of Neufmoutier, and it is within its limits his ashes are interred. The single fortress is perhaps stronger than any one of the defenses at Liege, the citadel being partly excavated in solid rock. It commands the passage of the Meuse, on both banks of which the city is picturesquely situated amid lofty rocks. The church of Notre Dame, a graceful Gothic edifice, was begun in 1311. The town is seventeen miles southwest of Liege. Its industries are paper, leather, beer, zinc, spirits and wine.

Papal Terms.

Nine popes reigned less than one month, thirty less than one year, eleven more than twenty years and six over twenty-three years. The reign of St. Peter was the longest in the history of the papacy, being seven years in Antioch and twenty-five in Rome. Next to him in length of service was Pius IX., whose death in 1878 terminated a reign of thirty-one years, and it is not a little remarkable that the third should have been his successor, the illustrious Leo XIII., who occupied the papal throne for over twenty-five years.

Unique Race Course.

What is undoubtedly the most novel automobile race course in the world is found at Salduro, Utah, where natural salt beds furnish the roadway. The beds are on the line of the Western Pacific railroad and are sixty-five miles in length and eight miles in width, furnishing a smooth, unbroken surface, level as a table and are from two to twenty feet in depth. The salt is crystallized, 98 per cent pure and white as snow. The surface is hard and dry.—Argonaut.

CITY AND COUNTY AT TAX HEARING

Charles A. Russell Engaged to Present Cause of County Before State Tax Commission

CUYUNA RANGE HEARING OCT. 26

Tax Commission Instructed to Put Mineral Lands in City on Parity With Rest of County

Action of the most momentous kind, fraught with supreme importance for every resident and taxpayer of Crow Wing county and the city of Brainerd, was taken by the city council on Monday evening and stamps that body of men as progressive and alive to the people's interest as the county commissioners of Crow Wing county.

And it was the county commissioners, by the way, who broached the subject of taxation to the city council and whose initiative set in motion the city council's action.

All members of the city council were present except Alderman Stahlman and he came in about 10 o'clock in the evening.

County Commissioner John A. Oberg spoke for the county commissioners and also consulted with J. A. Erickson, president of the county board, who was present. Mr. Oberg said that it appeared possible that the State Tax Commission was about to reduce the assessments on the range as equalized by the county board of equalization. The mine owners, of course, would be represented at the hearing on the Cuyuna iron range set at St. Paul for Monday, October 26, and it would be only fair to have the city of Brainerd and the county of Crow Wing represented to look after the interests of the people in common. He mentioned Charles A. Russell as being looked upon with favor by the county commissioner to represent the county at the hearing and his fee had been set at $150 and expenses. Mr. Oberg asked the city to stand its proportionate share of the expense.

City Attorney W. H. Crowell said the city had the right to engage assistant counsel. He considered it better to have one attorney than to have several appear. The people had a right to appeal from the decision of the State Tax Commission, when certain property was not placed on the tax rolls. If they refused to keep the valuation on certain property, the county could appeal to the state supreme court.

County Commissioner John A. Oberg said it was nothing but fair for the city and county to have their representative at the hearing. The mining companies would be on hand to look after their own interests. The county commissioners were willing to do their part.

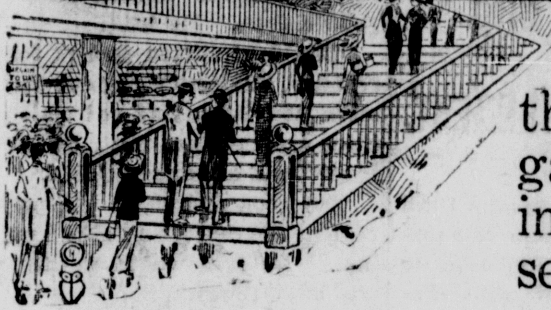

Alderman Mahlum said that the old valuation gave Brainerd $2,500,000 assessed valuation and the county $8,000,000. With the prospective mineral taxation the county figures would rise to $24,000,000. Mr. Mahlum mentioned that the villages of Crosby and Ironton would probably also be represented by attorneys.

Alderman Mahlum read the following resolution which was unanimously adopted:

"Whereas, the city assessor in assessing the iron ore properties, within the limits of the city of Brainerd for the year 1914, did not assess the same on a parity with the assessments made by other assessors on the Cuyuna range, within the county of Crow Wing; and whereas, the county board of equalization did not materially change said assessment, now therefore, be it resolved, that the tax commission of the State of Minnesota be and hereby is requested to affix a value on the iron ore land within the City of Brainerd, as may be reflected from drill hole tests shown on blue prints in possession of the tax commission, on an approximate parity with the various other iron ore lands, within the county as finally established by the tax commission."

County Commissioner Oberg said the county commissioners spent two days on the ore question. Of course, they had no blue prints to be guided by. But they had advice from many people who had a knowledge of the range. They acted in the fairest manner possible. Maybe some properties had been hit hard and others were not put high enough. But the state tax commission had all the blue prints and would do the matter justice. If Brainerd paid one-third the expense of an attorney at the hearing it would be a fair and equitable charge. County Commissioners Oberg and Erickson both considered that one-third for the city and two-thirds for the county was an equitable division of the expenses and the council concurred in the view.

The resolution was then adopted, all voting aye, that Charles A. Russell be employed as assistant counsel to appear before the state tax commission with a view of maintaining the assessed valuation of iron ore properties in Crow Wing county as returned by the various assessors and equalized by the county board of equalization.

Attorney H. A. Swanson pleaded the cause of his client, Mrs. Bertha Bergmann, of Woodrow, who was injured in a runaway in the city of Brainerd and for which he held the city liable. City Attorney Crowell reported that the claim had not been presented to the council by written notice within the required thirty days. The council accepted the report.

C. H. Paine congratulated the council on the good work done by the body in the last year and everybody smoked up.

A teamster, Geo. Oakes, working for the city and claiming damages to a team alleged to have been in the employ of the city, presented a claim of $75 and spoke on the subject. The council took no action.

J. E. Rothaus, appearing for the Brainerd Model Laundry, was given permission to run a steam pipe line through the alley near their building to the Beare block.

T. T. Blackburn spoke on the sewer on Bluff avenue and wanted information as to its cost.

The sewer bids were opened, referring to the proposed district sewer on North Bluff avenue. F. A. Glass bid $1.92 a foot for the distance of 3,072 feet. The L. W. Sherlund Co. bid $1.43 a foot. Illstrup & Olson, of Minneapolis, bid $1.49 a foot. All bids included lamp holes and man holes, etc., according to specifications.

There was a continued discussion about the sewer on North Bluff avenue, one property owner claiming it would confiscate his property, his tax alone coming to almost $600. In the end it was referred to the sewer committee and it was announced the council would soon have a special meeting on sewers. No action was taken on the bids made.

The bill of the Standard Oil Co. for oil used in oiling the streets, was on motion, ordered paid from the general revenue fund, City Attorney W. H. Crowell holding that the street maintenance fund was not the proper fund to stand the burden.

The bill of the Burns detective agency for $120.22 was turned down. The opinion of the city attorney said that "there is nothing in the bill nor on the bill or attached thereto that shows any claim against the city and it is my opinion that no legal bill can be made for any such services, as there is no authority granted by the city charter or any law whereby the city council can authorize the payment of the public money upon such a claim. I know of no action ever having been taken concerning this matter by the city council or any of the city officers and have no hesitancy in stating that it is beyond the power of any city official to bind the city with such an obligation. I would therefore recommend that no payment whatever be made upon this bill."

Alderman Haake said the mayor had spoken to him about a detective at the time of the Rappel murder. Alderman Hess said the mayor had talked to him. Alderman Smith said it seemed good policy to get a detective.

City Attorney Crowell said there was no law giving the city the right to hire detectives. The bill was not itemized to show where the detective had worked. The city could not pay him to run all around the county. Mr. Crowell said he had not been asked about hiring a detective.

This was denied by Mayor Hennings, who said he had spoken to Mr. Crowell about it.

Mr. Crowell said the city had no jurisdiction of felonies. H. A. Swanson gave his reasons why he considered it proper to hire a detective. City Attorney Crowell said the matter was one for the county to attend to. If the city was sued on the bill, the detective agency could not recover from the city.

The mayor's letter in reference to the bill of the detective agency which examined into the city clerk robbery stood:

"I am herewith handing to your body the bill of the W. J. Burns detective agency for services rendered in connection with the robbery of our city clerk.

"I have carefully examined this bill and compared it with the portion of the bill to be paid by the county of Crow Wing and have found that the amount charged to the city of Brainerd is a fair portion of the whole bill and in accordance with arrangements made with the county attorney at the time of the engagement of the Burns detective agency."

A bill of $42 for 700 license tags was ordered paid. The ordinance amending the wheelage tax was adopted. This makes a more equitable tax figure for the heavy stable men.

The proposition of the Diebold Safe & Lock Co. regarding a certain change in city hall plans was accepted. Additional steel plate is to be installed at a cost of $121.

The garbage cans on street corners are to be cleaned, repainted green and re-lettered. Mayor R. A. Hennings was delegated to attend the League of Municipalities convention in Mankato.

Some sewer petitions from citizens were laid over and will probably be considered at the special meeting on sewers.

County Commissioner John A. Oberg said it was nothing but fair for the city and county to have their representative at the hearing. The mining companies would be on hand to look after their own interests. The county commissioners were willing to do their part.

Alderman Mahlum said that the old valuation gave Brainerd $2,500,000 assessed valuation and the county $8,000,000. With the prospective mineral taxation the county figures would rise to $24,000,000. Mr. Mahlum mentioned that the villages of Crosby and Ironton would probably also be represented by attorneys.

Alderman Mahlum read the following resolution which was unanimously adopted:

"Whereas, the city assessor in assessing the iron ore properties, within the limits of the city of Brainerd for the year 1914, did not assess the same on a parity with the assessments made by other assessors on the Cuyuna range, within the county of Crow Wing; and whereas, the county board of equalization did not materially change said assessment, now therefore, be it resolved, that the tax commission of the State of Minnesota be and hereby is requested to affix a value on the iron ore land within the City of Brainerd, as may be reflected from drill hole tests shown on blue prints in possession of the tax commission, on an approximate parity with the various other iron ore lands, within the county as finally established by the tax commission."

County Commissioner Oberg said the county commissioners spent two days on the ore question. Of course, they had no blue prints to be guided by. But they had advice from many people who had a knowledge of the range. They acted in the fairest manner possible. Maybe some properties had been hit hard and others were not hit high enough. But the state tax commission had all the blue prints and would do the matter justice. If Brainerd paid one-third the expense of an attorney at the hearing it would be a fair and equitable charge. County Commissioners Oberg and Erickson both considered that one-third for the city and two-thirds for the county was an equitable division of the expenses and the council concurred in the view.

The resolution was then adopted, all voting aye, that Charles A. Russell be employed as assistant counsel to appear before the state tax commission with a view of maintaining the assessed valuation of iron ore properties in Crow Wing county as returned by the various assessors and equalized by the county board of equalization.

Attorney H. A. Swanson pleaded the cause of his client, Mrs. Bertha Bergemann, of Woodrow, who was injured in a runaway in the city of Brainerd and for which he held the city liable. City Attorney Crowell reported that the claim had not been presented to the council by written notice within the required thirty days. The council accepted the report.

C. H. Paine congratulated the council on the good work done by the body in the last year and everybody smoked up.

A teamster, Geo. Oakes, working for the city and claiming damages to a team alleged to have been in the employ of the city, presented a claim of $75 and spoke on the subject. The council took no action.

J. E. Rothaus, appearing for the Brainerd Model Laundry, was given permission to run a steam pipe line through the alley near their building to the Beare block.

T. T. Blackburn spoke on the sewer on Bluff avenue and wanted information as to its cost.

The sewer bids were opened, referring to the proposed district sewer on North Bluff avenue. F. A. Glass bid $1.92 a foot for the distance of 3,072 feet. The L. W. Sherlund Co. bid $1.43 a foot. Illstrup & Olson, of Minneapolis, bid $1.40 a foot. All bids included lamp holes and man holes, etc., according to specifications.

There was a continued discussion about the sewer on North Bluff avenue, one property owner claiming it would confiscate his property, his tax alone coming to almost $600. In the end it was referred to the sewer committee and it was announced the council would soon have a special meeting on sewers. No action was taken on the bids made.

The bill of the Standard Oil Co. for oil used in oiling the streets, was on motion, ordered paid from the general revenue fund, City Attorney W. H. Crowell holding that the street maintenance fund was not the proper fund to stand the burden.

The bill of the Burns detective agency for $120.22 was turned down. The opinion of the city attorney said that "there is nothing in the bill nor on the bill or attached thereto that shows any claim against the city and it is my opinion that no legal bill can be made for any such services, as there is no authority granted by the city charter or any law whereby the city council can authorize the payment of the public money upon such a claim. I know of no action ever having been taken concerning this matter by the city council or any of the city officers and have no hesitancy in stating that it is beyond the power of any city official to bind the city with such an obligation. I would therefore recommend that no payment whatever be made upon this bill."

Alderman Haake said the mayor had spoken to him about a detective at the time of the Rappel murder. Alderman Hess said the mayor had talked to him. Alderman Smith said it seemed good policy to get a detective.

City Attorney Crowell said there was no law giving the city the right to hire detectives. The bill was not itemized to show where the detective had worked. The city could not pay him to run all around the county. Mr. Crowell said he had not been asked about hiring a detective.

This was denied by Mayor Hennings, who said he had spoken to Mr. Crowell about it.

Mr. Crowell said the city had no jurisdiction of felonies. H. A. Swanson gave his reasons why he considered it proper to hire a detective. City Attorney Crowell said the matter was one for the county to attend to. If the city was sued on the bill, the detective agency could not recover from the city.

The mayor's letter in reference to the bill of the detective agency which examined into the city clerk robbery stood:

"I am herewith handing to your body the bill of the W. J. Burns detective agency for services rendered in connection with the robbery of our city clerk.

"I have carefully examined this bill and compared it with the portion of the bill to be paid by the county of

A bill of $42 for 700 license tags was ordered paid. The ordinance amending the wheelage tax was adopted. This makes a more equitable tax figure for the livery stable men.

The proposition of the Diebold Safe & Lock Co. regarding a certain change in city hall plans was accepted. Additional steel plate is to be installed at a cost of $121.

The garbage cans on street corners are to be cleaned, repainted green and re-lettered. Mayor R. A. Hennings was delegated to attend the League of Municipalities convention in Mankato.

Some sewer petitions from citizens were laid over and will probably be considered at the special meeting on sewers.

The House Divided.

Alone in that strange place of silence and shadows—that den of the devil's livery, crimson and black—chained to the invalid chair wherein, day in, day out, for years on end, he had suffered the Promethean torments of the life that would not die out of his wretched, wrecked carcass, though without ceasing sharp-beaked envy, hatred, malice and all uncharitable pecked insatiably at his vitals; Seneca Trine sat waiting, with the impassivity of a graven image waiting on the imminent hour of ultimate avengement for the wrong that had made him what he was.

"Another hour! . . . In sixty minutes more they will be here, Judith and Marrophat and Rose—poor fool!—and him! . . . In sixty minutes more they will put him down before me, bound and helpless, if not dead."

A slight pause prefaced words that were a whispered prayer: "God send that he be not dead! Have I lingered here in anguish all these weary years for the fulfillment of my revenge only to be cheated at the end by Death? God grant that Alan Law may be laid down still living here at my feet. . . . Then . . .

A bitter smile twisted his tortured features: "Then shall my will be done to him! And then, when I have seen

Take a very small chew—less than one-quarter the old size. It will be more satisfying than a mouthful of ordinary tobacco. Just nibble on it until you find the strength chew that suits you. Tuck it away. Then let it rest. See how easily and evenly the real tobacco taste comes, how it satisfies without grinding, how much less you have to spit, how few chews you take to be tobacco satisfied. That's why it is the Real Tobacco Chew. That's why it costs less in the end.

It is a ready chew, cut fine and short shreds so that you won't have to grind on it with your teeth. Grinding on ordinary candied tobacco makes you spit too much.

One small chew takes the place of two big chews of the old kind.

on the desk and pressed one long. Almost instantly a servant glided noiselessly into the room.

"My daughter Rose—have her brought here to me at once!"

In another moment the replica of his daughter Judith was ushered into his presence.

Upon this one he loosed the lightnings of his wrath without ruth. Rose suffered him in silence. His most galling recrimination euded no retort from this one.

In a lull in Trine's tirade, Judith chose to interject: "Don't be so hard on the silly fool; she's not responsible; she's sick with love for that good-looking simpleton!"

"And you!" Rose turned on her passionately—"what about you? If I love Alan Law, at least I love him openly. I am not ashamed to own it—and I don't pursue him, as you do, pretending I mean to sacrifice him to a wicked family feud, and then spare him every time I meet him, to lead him to believe I haven't the heart to injure him—as you do, hoping so to work upon his sympathies and earn a kindly word and a pat on the head from his hand!"

Fiercely she leveled a denunciatory arm at her sister. "There!" she cried to her father—"If you need to know—there stands the daughter who has betrayed your faith—as I have not, who have never even pretended to approve your villainy!"

"I think," Trine announced in a voice of ice—"I have learned now what I needed to know."

His fingers sought the row of buttons; and when a servant responded, he inquired:

"Mr. Marrophat has returned?"

"He is in the waiting room, sir."

"Conduct Miss Judith to him and tell him I hold him personally responsible for her safe-keeping. He will understand."

And for a long time thereafter the father, alone with the daughter who had been estranged from him since birth by every instinct of her nature, essayed in vain to break down her mutinous silence.

At last Trine summoned two of his creatures and had her led weeping from the room to be held prisoner in her bedchamber on the topmost floor of the house.

UNCLE SAM HAS JOBS

Government Service Wants Male Stenographers and Typewriters, Especially in Washington

For some time the United States Civil Service Commission has experienced difficulty in supplying a sufficient number of male eligibles for stenographer and typewriter positions to meet the requirements of the government service, particularly in Washington, D. C. An extra effort is being made to supply this demand.

Young men who are willing to accept appointment at an entrance salary of $840 to $900 per annum have excellent opportunities for appointment. Advancement of capable appointees is reasonably rapid. Occasionally appointment is made at a salary of at least two years' practical office experience will be certified.

The government service offers a desirable field to bright and ambitious young men.

Examinations are held monthly, except in December, in 400 of the principal cities of the United States, and applications may be filed with the commission at Washington, D. C., at any time.

For full information in regard to the scope and character of the examination and for application forms address the U. S. Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C., or the secretary of the U. S. Civil Service Board of Examiners at St. Paul.

FALLING HAIR MEANS DANDRUFF IS ACTIVE

Save your Hair! Get a 25 cent bottle of Danderine right now—Also stops itching scalp

Thin, brittle, colorless and scraggy hair is mute evidence of a neglected scalp; of dandruff—that awful scurf.

There is nothing so destructive to the hair as dandruff. It robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life; eventually producing a feverishness and itching of the scalp, which if not remedied causes the hair roots to shrink, loosen and die—then the hair falls out fast. A little Danderine tonight—now—any time—will surely save your hair.

Get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and after the first application your hair will take on that life, lustre and luxuriance which is so beautiful. It will become wavy and fluffy and have the appearance of abundance, an incomparable gloss and softness, but what will please you most will be after just a few week's use, when you will actually see a lot of fine, downy hair—new hair—growing all over the scalp. —Advt.

SOUTH DEMANDS AID IN CRISIS

Seeking a Method to Dispose of Great Cotton Crop.

POSTPONES ADJOURNMENT.

Congress May Remain in Session Until Some Satisfactory Measure Is Passed—Senators Threaten Filibuster to Force Consideration of Bills—Political Capital Is Thus Made.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.

Washington, Oct. 20.—[Special.]—Cotton and politics combined to delay the adjournment of this session of congress. The cotton situation in the south is serious, and every man interested in that section of the country has been doing everything he can to relieve it.

Even the most stringent states' rights men are anxious to have the federal government come to their aid in a manner which reminds one of the palm days of populism, when a considerable portion of the people wanted the general government to issue money on every conceivable product.

It had all been fixed up that adjournment would take place about the middle of October, but that was kicked over by the demand for legislation for cotton. Southern senators and representatives started what looked like a mild filibuster to prevent adjournment until some action had been taken. This did not amount to much in the house, for there they can grind away and force action. But in the senate a filibuster becomes serious and actually holds up business.

"Outs" Against the "Ins."

The cotton situation develops the same old fight of the "outs" against the "ins." The men who have been trying to unhorse the men who are holding the offices have seized upon the cotton situation to play politics and insist that those who are in power shall do something for the people in this crisis. They are making the best political game possible out of it too.

"The southern men are in control of the party in congress," they say. "They have a majority. They have been running everything by caucus, and they can go into caucus and vote for a bill which will relieve the situation. There is no reason why the government should not take over and hold the surplus cotton for a few years, and the men in power ought to get us relief."

Must Make an Effort.

And the "ins" must make an effort. They must try to carry out the demands of their people. They know that it is impossible to pass legislation that would mean having the government purchase their cotton. But when they find the "outs" playing politics in the cotton situation they must play the game a bit for themselves. Of course these men are in earnest in their efforts to do something for the cotton growers, but the fact remains that they know that little can be done, particularly along the lines of issuing half a billion in bonds to purchase the cotton crop.

The Hard Luck Man.

Senator Myers of Montana is called the "hard luck man." Some way nothing seems to go right with him. Once, although he was the ranking member, he was prevented from being a conferee on the Indian appropriation bill because of an open protest in the senate. Then it has happened several times that his colleague has taken hold of and run bills from the committee of which Myers is chairman. To cap the climax the senate sent back to conference a bill which Myers had brought in after a long struggle. Altogether it has been a hard luck session for this hard working Montana senator.

Lafferty's Unique Position.

Congressman Lafferty of Oregon seems to be having quite a contest for re-election. He told the house one day his story, beginning thus: "I occupy a unique position. I have not the support of a single daily newspaper anywhere. I have neither the support nor endorsement of any party. For three years any one feeling that he needed a little leg exercise, especially if he lived in my district, has taken a kick at me."

As Observed by Marshall.

The senate was in one of its frequent disorderly spells. Senator Simmons, in charge of the revenue bill, called out: "A point of order. What is before the senate?"

"When the chair last observed," replied Vice President Marshall, "there were three senators on the floor, all talking at once."

Still Has the Power.

The Republican senators have not neglected to call attention to the power which President Wilson exerts in congress. Senator Jones of Washington called attention to the immigration bill which passed the house last winter and which has been on the senate calendar for months, but which has not even been called up for action. Jones said that seventy-three senators were pledged to vote for the measure, which contains the literacy test, upon which ground it was vetoed by President Taft. Such a vote would insure passing it over the president's veto, but the president is supposed to be strong enough not to let it come to him for action.

THE GOOD CITIZEN

Charles E. Adams, President of Cleveland Hardware Co., Outlines His Characteristics

In the October 15 issue of the Iron Trade Review, of Cleveland, Ohio, Charles E. Adams, president of the Cleveland Hardware Co., outlined in an address the characteristics of a good citizen. He said:

"The good citizen doesn't forget to register, he doesn't neglect the primaries, he tries to find out which nominees are the best men, he rarely or never votes a straight ticket."

The good citizen is willing to accept public office, and still more willing to lay it down when his service has been rendered.

The good citizen does not advocate public improvements and then protest against the tax rate.

He has an interest in the working out of city problems, and a more or less definite knowledge of what they are.

He is neither indifferent to nor over-elated by the census returns, realizing that while the increased size of his city represented an enlarged opportunity for living a full life, it represents also enormously increased civic responsibilities.

The good citizen talks little of charity and gives largely both in time and money.

The humblest workman may be a better citizen than the wealthiest resident, measured by his opportunity."

BAD TEMPER.

If you have a bad temper curb it. One of the worst results of frequent bad temper is the sense of resentment it arouses in others. In time it is likely to alienate from us love that perhaps in later years we would give worlds to recall.

Hopeless Lung Trouble Cured

Many recoveries from lung troubles are due to Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey. It strengthens the lungs, checks the cough and gives relief at once—Mr. W. S. Wilkins, Gates, N. CHAPTER XXII.

The House Divided.

Alone in that strange place of silence and shadows—that den of the devil's livery, crimson and black—chained to the invalid chair wherein, day in, day out, for years on end, he had suffered the Promethean torments of the life that would not die out of his wretched, wrecked carcass, though without ceasing sharp-beaked envy, hatred, malice and all uncharitable-ness pecked insatiably at his vitals; Seneca Trine sat waiting, with the impassivity of a graven figure waiting on the imminent hour of ultimate avengement for the wrong that had made him what he was.

A slight pause prefaced words that were a whispered prayer: "God send that he be not dead! Have I lingered here in anguish all these weary years for the fulfillment of my revenge only to be cheated at the end by Death? God grant that Alan Law may be laid down still living here at my feet! . . . Then . . ."

Rose Turned on Her Passionately.

A bitter smile twisted his tortured features: "Then shall my will be done to him! And then, when I have seen him die as his father died—then—Ah, God!—then at last I too may die!

There was a long silence, then a groan of exasperated protest: "Why do they not come? Why does Judith delay, when she knows how I suffer? Why have I been put off from day to day with her telegrams that begged for more time and promised everything—but told nothing!—until yesterday . . . Where are those messages she sent me yesterday?"

His one sound hand groped out like a claw and sought a mass of papers on the desk beside him, sorting out from among them two yellow forms. Painfully he blinked over these and slowly his pain-bent lips curled their words:

"Alan and Rose safe with me—will bring both home tomorrow night without fail," he read the first aloud; and then the second: "Have Marrophat waiting for me tomorrow morning from three o'clock till called for New Bedford waterfront—Judith!"

"No!" he affirmed with the fervor of one persuaded by his own desires: "I must not doubt the girl! She has promised, she has performed:

So still was he, indeed that he seemed to sleep, but so deceptive was that semblance that he was alert for the least sound. The girl entered softly, as if fearful of disturbing his slumbers; but she found him with head erect and eyes a-blaze.

"Judith!" he cried, his great voice vibrating like a brazen bell. "At last! Where is he? You have brought him? Where is he?"

With no more answer than a sigh, the girl drooped her head and let her hands hang limply with palms exposed.

After an instant of incredulous dis-appointment the man shot a single, frigid question at her:

"You have failed?"

"I have failed," she confessed.

"Why?"

She shrugged slightly. "Who knows why one fails? I did my best; he was too much for me, outwitted me at every turn. Time and again I thought I had him, but always he escaped, either by his own wit and courage or with another's aid. Only yesterday night they were all three in the hollow of my hands—but now I bring you only Rose."

She faltered, awed by the glare of his infuriated eyes. "Let me explain," she begged.

He snapped her short: "You cannot explain. The thing is impossible, that you should have failed. There is something beneath this, something you will not tell me."

She endeavored to speak, but he enforced silence with a sonorous "No!" His hand sought the row of buttons on the desk and pressed one long.

Almost instantly a servant glided noiselessly into the room.

"My daughter Rose—have her brought here to me at once!"

In another moment the replica of his daughter Judith was ushered into his presence.

Upon this one he loosed the lightning of his wrath without ruth. Rose suffered him in silence. His most galling recrimination elicited no retort from this one.

In a lull in Trine's tirade, Judith chose to interject: "Don't be so hard on the silly fool; she's not responsible; she's sick with love for that good-looking simpleton!"

"And you!" Rose turned on her passionately—"what about you? If I love Alan Law, at least I love him openly. I am not ashamed to own it—and I don't pursue him, as you do, pretending I mean to sacrifice him to a wicked family feud, and then spare him every time I meet him, to lead him to believe I haven't the heart to injure him—as you do, hoping so to work upon his sympathies and earn a kindly word and a pat on the head from his hand!"

Piercing she leveled a denunciatory arm at her sister. "There!" she cried to her father—"if you need to know—there stands the daughter who has betrayed your faith—as I have not, who have never even pretended to approve your villainy!"

"I think," Trine announced in a voice of ice—"I have learned now what I needed to know."

His fingers sought the row of buttons; and when a servant responded, he inquired:

"Mr. Marrophat has returned?"

"He is in the waiting room, sir."

"Conduct Miss Judith to him and tell him I hold him personally responsible for her safe-keeping. He will understand."

And for a long time thereafter the father, alone with the daughter who had been estranged from him since birth by every instinct of her nature, essayed in vain to break down her mutinous silence.

At last Trine summoned two of his creatures and had her led weeping from the room to be held prisoner in her bedchamber on the topmost floor of the house.

UNCLE SAM HAS JOBS

Government Service Wants Male Stenographers and Typewriters, Especially in Washington

For some time the United States Civil Service Commission has experienced difficulty in supplying a sufficient number of male eligibles for stenographer and typewriter positions to meet the requirements of the government service, particularly in Washington, D. C. An extra effort is being made to supply this demand.

Young men who are willing to accept appointment at an entrance salary of $840 to $900 per annum have excellent opportunities for appointment. Advancement of capable appointees is reasonably rapid. Occasionally appointment is made at a salary of at least two years' practical office experience will be certified.

The government service offers a desirable field to bright and ambitious young men.

Examinations are held monthly, except in December, in 400 of the principal cities of the United States, and applications may be filed with the commission at Washington, D. C., at any time.

For full information in regard to the scope and character of the examination and for application forms address the U. S. Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C., or the secretary of the U. S. Civil Service Board of Examiners at St. Paul.

FALLING HAIR MEANS DANDRUFF IS ACTIVE

Save your Hair! Get a 25 cent bottle of Danderine right now—Also stops itching scalp

Thin, brittle, colorless and scraggy hair is mute evidence of a neglected scalp; of dandruff—that awful scurf. There is nothing so destructive to the hair as dandruff. It robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life; eventually producing a feverishness and itching of the scalp, which if not remedied causes the hair roots to shrink, loosen and die—then the hair falls out fast. A little Danderine tonight—now—any time—will surely save your hair.

Get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and after the first application your hair will take on that life, lustre and luxuriance which is so beautiful. It will become wavy and fluffy and have the appearance of abundance; an incomparable gloss and softness, but what will please you most will be after just a few weeks' use, when you will actually see a lot of fine, downy hair—new hair—growing all over the scalp. —Advt.

SOUTH DEMANDS AID IN CRISIS

Seeking a Method to Dispose of Great Cotton Crop.

POSTPONES ADJOURNMENT.

Congress May Remain in Session Until Some Satisfactory Measure Is Passed—Senators Threaten Filibuster to Force Consideration of Bills—Political Capital Is Thus Made.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.

Washington, Oct. 20.—[Special.]—Cotton and politics combined to delay the adjournment of this session of congress. The cotton situation in the south is serious, and every man interested in that section of the country has been doing everything he can to relieve it.

Even the most stringent states' rights men are anxious to have the federal government come to their aid in a manner which reminds one of the palmy days of populism, when a considerable portion of the people wanted the general government to issue money on every conceivable product.

It had all been fixed up that adjournment would take place about the middle of October, but that was kicked over by the demand for legislation for cotton. Southern senators and representatives started what looked like a mild filibuster to prevent adjournment until some action had been taken. This did not amount to much in the house, for there they can grind away and force action. But in the senate a filibuster becomes serious and actually holds up business.

"Outs" Against the "Ins."

The cotton situation develops the same old fight of the "outs" against the "ins." The men who have been trying to unhorse the men who are holding the offices have seized upon the cotton situation to play politics and insist that those who are in power shall do something for the people in this crisis. They are making the best political game possible out of it too.

"The southern men are in control of the party in congress," they say. "They have a majority. They have been running everything by caucus, and they can go into caucus and vote for a bill which will relieve the situation. There is no reason why the government should not take over and hold the surplus cotton for a few years, and the men in power ought to get us relief."

Must Make an Effort.

And the "ins" must make an effort. They must try to carry out the demands of their people. They know that it is impossible to pass legislation that would mean having the government purchase their cotton. But when they find the "outs" playing politics in the cotton situation they must play the game a bit for themselves. Of course these men are in earnest in their efforts to do something for the cotton growers, but the fact remains that they know that little can be done, particularly along the lines of issuing half a billion in bonds to purchase the cotton crop.

The Hard Luck Man.

Senator Myers of Montana is called the "hard luck man." Some way nothing seems to go right with him. Once, although he was the ranking member, he was prevented from being a conferee on the Indian appropriation bill because of an open protest in the senate. Then it has happened several times that his colleague has taken hold of and run bills from the committee of which Myers is chairman. To cap the climax the senate sent back to conference a bill which Myers had brought in after a long struggle. Altogether it has been a hard luck session for this hard working Montana senator.

Lafferty's Unique Position.

Congressman Lafferty of Oregon seems to be having quite a contest for re-election. He told the house one day his story, beginning thus: "I occupy a unique position. I have not the support of a single daily newspaper anywhere. I have neither the support nor endorsement of any party. For three years any one feeling that he needed a little leg exercise, especially if he lived in my district, has taken a kick at me."

As Observed by Marshall.

The senate was in one of its frequent disorderly spells. Senator Simmons, in charge of the revenue bill, called out: "A point of order. What is before the senate?"

"When the chair last observed," replied Vice President Marshall, "there were three senators on the floor, all talking at once."

Still Has the Power.

The Republican senators have not neglected to call attention to the power which President Wilson exerts in congress. Senator Jones of Washington called attention to the immigration bill which passed the house last winter and which has been on the senate calendar for months, but which has not even been called up for action. Jones said that seventy-three senators were pledged to vote for the measure, which contains the literacy test, upon which ground it was vetoed by President Taft. Such a vote would insure passing it over the president's veto, but the president is supposed to be strong enough not to let it come to him for action.

THE GOOD CITIZEN

Charles E. Adams, President of Cleveland Hardware Co., Outlines His Characteristics

In the October 15 issue of the Iron Trade Review, of Cleveland, Ohio, Charles E. Adams, president of the Cleveland Hardware Co., outlined in an address the characteristics of a good citizen. He said:

"The good citizen doesn't forget to register, he doesn't neglect the primaries, he tries to find out which nominees are the best men, he rarely or never votes a straight ticket.

The good citizen is willing to accept public office, and still more willing to lay it down when this service has been rendered.

The good citizen does not advocate public improvements and then protest against the tax rate.

He has an interest in the working out of city problems, and a more or less definite knowledge of what they are.

He is neither indifferent to nor over-elated by the census returns, realizing that while the increased size of his city represented an enlarged opportunity for living a full life, it represents also enormously increased civic responsibilities.

The good citizen picks little of charity and gives largely both in time and money.

The humblest workman may be a better citizen than the wealthiest resident, measured by his opportunity."

BAD TEMPER.

If you have a bad temper curb it. One of the worst results of frequent bad temper is the sense of resentment it arouses in others. In time it is likely to alienate from us love that perhaps in later years we would give worlds to recall.

CUT loose from the big bulky wad. For a clean, small chew there's nothing like "Right-Cut." It is the Real Tobacco Chew that you hear men boosting to their friends.

Pure, sappy tobacco—seasoned and sweetened just enough. You get the taste of the richest tobacco grown.

Take a very small chew—less than one-quarter the size. It will be more satisfying than a mouthful of ordinary tobacco. Just nibble on it until you find the strength chew that suits you. Tuck it away. Then let it rest. See how easily and evenly the real tobacco taste comes, how it satisfies without grinding, how much less you have to spit, how few chews you take to be tobacco satisfied. That's why it is the Real Tobacco Chew. That's why it costs less in the end.

It is a ready chew, cut fine and short shred so that you won't have to grind it with your teeth. Grinding ordinary tobacco makes you spit too much.

The taste of pure, rich tobacco does not need to be covered up with molasses and licorice. Notice how the salt brings out the rich tobacco taste in "Right-Cut."

One small chew takes the place of two big chews of the old kind.
